Singapore restaurant voted No. 1 in Asia

Hong Kong boasts the best all-around Asian dining, but the best restaurant is in Singapore, according to the inaugural edition of The Miele Guide, the company said Monday in a statement.

Iggy's, a four-year-old eatery run by a Filipino chef in Singapore, topped the guide's rankings of the top 20 Asian restaurants. In the top 10 were L'Atelier de Joel Robuchon, Yung Kee and Hutong in Hong Kong; Les Amis, Gunther's and Garibaldi in Singapore; Mozaic in Bali, Indonesia; and Robuchon a Galera, in Macao.

Places were chosen in four rounds of judging. Food critics from 16 Asian countries chose a short list, then 75,000 votes from the general public were logged on the Miele Web site.
